

MEMORIAL

Remembering the fallen

Federal ALP Leader Kim Beazley has officially dedicated a memorial wall in honour of building workers killed and injured at work. The Wall of Remembrance, pictured right, was built by the CFMEU to remember those who have died at work – and as a reminder that the fight for the rights of the living continues.

Representatives of families who have had loved ones killed at the workplace also spoke in support of the union's campaign to defend workers' rights and safety.

"Unfortunately too many workers have been tragically killed in workplace accidents," CFMEU Secretary Andrew Ferguson said. "The names of those injured and killed by disease are too many to record, but we pay our respects to all."

The CFMEU calls on all families of workers killed and injured to join its campaign for better workplace safety.

Members can visit the Wall of Remembrance at the CFMEU head office, 10 Railway Street, Lidcombe.
